Place the coir tablet in a bowl with around 30ml of warm water and leave it to swell. Gently break up the coir and fill the terracotta pot, leaving a little space at the top. Push 1 or 2 sunflower seeds about 1cm into the coir and lightly cover. Place the pot on a saucer or plate in a warm, bright spot and keep the coir slightly damp.

Aftercare

Once your sunflower starts to grow, keep it somewhere bright and water regularly. If both seeds sprout, gently remove the smaller one so the stronger plant has room to grow. When it outgrows the pot, move it into a larger one or plant it outside after the last frost. Sunflowers grow best in a sunny, sheltered spot.
